

World Elephant Day Observation

Date: 12 August, 2026

organised by

Department of Zoology, Dudhnoi College (Autonomous)

The World Elephant Day celebration held on 12 August, 2026 organised by Department of Zoology, Dudhnoi College (Autonomous), was a meaningful and enjoyable programme that brought students and teachers together to learn more about elephants and the importance of wildlife conservation. The programme began with the inauguration by Dr. Manash Lochan das, Head of the Department of Chemistry, who shared his valuable thoughts with everyone. Respected Head of the Department of Zoology also addressed the gathering and highlighted the importance of protecting wildlife and maintaining a balance with nature. The programme then continued with a documentary screening that helped us understand elephants, their natural habitats, behaviour, and the challenges they face. An open quiz competition was also organized, where students actively participated and tested their knowledge about elephants and wildlife. Along with this, an essay writing competition had been announced earlier, and the submitted essays were evaluated by three judges. The winners were then announced and awarded first-Kongkita Kashyap(5th sem), second-Noami Tamang(5th sem) and third-Janmoni Barman (1 sem) prizes. Overall, the entire programme was successfully completed with active participation and enthusiasm from both students and teachers. It was not only informative but also gave everyone a better understanding of the importance of elephant conservation and our responsibility towards protecting wildlife.
